FRIDAY, MARCH 10, 1893.

The wife of Congressman M. C. Lisle, of the Tenth district, died last Saturday.

The Car Coupler bill and the Chandler immigration bill were signed by President Harrison.

Ex-Gov. Buckner and Gov. Brown have sacrificed a good deal of their dignity for the sake of a little spat.

The state of Ohio, for the first time in thirty-two years, is without either the President or a Cabinet officer.

A daughter of Chief Justice Fuller died in Chicago a few days ago. She was married in Washington two years ago.

The House Committee on Rules has decided to report favorably the resolution to adjourn the Kentucky General Assembly sine die May 1.

The weather was very cold and disagreeable in Washington last Saturday. Perhaps it was ordered for the occasion—to freeze the Republicans out and snow them under.

The purchase of the Cherokee Strip for $5,000,000, to be paid in five annual installments, is authorized by the Indian Appropriation bill, as finally passed by Congress.

A full account of the inauguration is found on our first page. The day was about as disagreeable as the weather clerk could furnish but the enthusiastic thousands braved the storm day and night.

In the United States Court at Cincinnati the Hon. Theodore Hallam was awarded judgment against the Cincinnati Post for $2,500 and costs for libel. Mr. Hallam brought suit for $10,000. The suit for libel against the Kentucky Post will be tried in the United States Court at Covington in May.

Dr. W. M. Doores, keeper of the Lincoln county poor-house, gives the Stanford Interior Journal the gratifying information that during the last fourteen years there have been only two Democrats in that institution, and during that time there has never been a Confederate soldier or a member of a Confederate family there.—C. J.

Hon. John W. Yeckes, the Kentucky World's Fair Commissioner, has made the live stock exhibit to be charged by the State at Chicago, has issued a call to breeders and all interested parties to meet at Lexington next Monday, March 13. The meeting is for the purpose of full discussion of all points relating to the exhibit, and should be largely attended.

Representative Kendall has received quite a number of letters from prominent Kentucky Democrats endorsing him for the Persian mission. Mr. Kendall has made many warm friends during his service in the house who would be pleased to see him get the appointment. So far as known Mr. Kendall has no opposition for this position from any Democrat in Kentucky.—C. J.

The National Association of Democratic Clubs has issued an address urging Democrats and those who united with them in the recent election to maintain and extend the system of Democratic clubs, which it is said "must, until the fruits of the late victory are gathered, be required to uphold the hands of our official representatives in the long and desperate struggle with private interests which is before them."

Senator Blackburn was the center of all eyes this morning. He looked "too sweet for anything" according to the testimony of one of the ladies in the Senate gallery. He wore the first spring suit that has appeared on the floor this year. In fact, it was the suit about which so much curiosity has been aroused. Of the Confederate gray it was very conspicuous among the sombre-hued garments of the other members. It was made for Mr. Blackburn in a Mississippi mill, the cloth being an especial manufacture for the purpose. It is a beautiful example of the Southern jeans. When Mr. Blackburn entered the Senate he was at once surrounded by his colleagues, who turned him about, admired the fit, felt the texture and congratulated him upon his acquisition. It was really something of a sensation.—Courier Journal.

Every man's life is within the present, for the past is spent and done with and the future is uncertain.

About Woman.

The women of Chicago have been vindicated at last. Some time ago the Tribune of that city, with the view of proving that Chicago women had been slandered in regard to the abnormal size of their feet, undertook to find a Cinderella who could put on a slipper measuring 7 3/4 inches from the heel to the toe, and offered a prize of $25 to go to the woman having the smallest perfect foot. Not only one but ten Cinderellas were found who could put on the slipper. One of them could slip it off. The prize was then awarded to Mrs. Clayton W. Carson, whose foot is half an inch shorter than the slipper. Let no more be said about the size of the Chicago girl's foot. One more calumny is buried.

Mrs. Lamont has both experience and tact enough to make her friends predict for her an enviable position in the social life of the new Administration. She hasn't the youth and beauty of Mrs. Cleveland, nor the wealth and social ambition which made Mrs. Whitney a queen in Washington official circles. But she is a very attractive woman, with a grace and courtesy which will give her popularity whether she wants it or not. Mrs. Lamont is tall, with a good figure and well set head. Her dark hair is thickly sprinkled with gray; she has pleasant brown eyes, an extremely sensitive mouth and a charming voice. It is much less a "pretty" face. But it is much more than good looking, and taken with her manners and voice, it has a real attractiveness.

At one of the New York swell hotels there is a lady guide whose business it is to show strangers around the city. She is a splendid shopper, knows something of art and the drama, and is excellently educated, speaking several languages. Her prices range from $5 to $10 a day.

One fashionable New York woman and her daughter spend $18,000 annually for clothes.

Juggling to the Last.

The final Treasury sentiment of the present Administration is a fitting close to the curious series. It does not show how much gold the Treasury holds above the $100,000,000 reserve, thought it is known from calculations based on previous statements that the amount is only about $4,000,000. It is characteristic of Mr. Foster that a fact of this sort, which must necessarily come out, should be for the amount omitted.—New York Times.

A child born, the physician officiating receives his fee, the editor writes up the event, and receives 0. The child reaches manhood's estate, and is married; the minister officiating receives his fee. The editor writes up another event and receives 0. Time passes on; the undertaker officiating receives his fee. The editor writes up another and receives 0. The chances are about even that the babe, the groom and the dead man took more papers than the child could read, and never subscribed for, or contributed one cent towards his local paper.—Exchange.

Miss Ida Hewitt, of Cairo, W. Va., who is the only female locomotive engineer in the world has been engaged by the women commissioners of the World's Fair to run the first train over the ground, on the opening day of the exposition. Miss Hewitt is now running regularly on the Cairo & Little Kanawha Railroad, which is a feeder of the B. & O. at Cairo. She is described as a pretty girl and a social favorite.

Didn't Find Aav in the First One.—"Where have you been today?"

"I've been out in the cemetery reading the epitaphs on the tombstones."

"Indeed! What are you going to do tomorrow?"

"I am going out to hunt up the cemetery where sinners are buried."—New York Press.

When Myra Clark Gaines died, in 1887, her estate was worth $925,000. The contest that has since been going on over her will has used up $8,000,000 of it, and a fresh start was made in Brooklyn courts on Thursday toward whitening down the balance.

Chicago Inter-Ocean: The Administration has 180,000 offices to give out. Multiply this by ten and you have an idea of the number who are "certain to get in." For all the best places the tea estimate can at least be doubled.

GLENWOOD.

From all accounts there will be a larger acreage of corn put in this season than we have ever known. The wheat looks bad for the time of year, and unless there is a great outcome in the latter the crop will be very short. Hogs are scarcer than was ever known in the country, and the prospects for the poor class of people is not very bright. Feed for stock is getting scarce, as were known of several that are hauling roughness for it.

We have had a few nice days, and the farmers are taking advantage of the same, and are doing a good deal of spring work.

Mr. Wesley Webb bought the Rice Farm on Eagle's Creek, and Mr. James children will move on it in a few days, and farm it this year.

Mr. Charles Tiler, one of our good citizens, is selling out here, and will locate somewhere down in the lower part of the State.

Mr. James Coffee will move from here in a few days to the farm of V. B. Shortridge on the Little East Fork.

Provisions are getting so high that a good many who have only a small supply are a little discouraged about making their crops.

Hog cholera has struck this neighborhood, but it only strikes in few places, and finds but few victims.

Mr. Elisha Webb has rented his farm here, and will move to Denton in a few days. Mr. Webb has bought a house and lot in Denton, and will make his home for some time, as he has a store there also.

"It is hoped that the proper officers will see to it that the ordinance forbidding hogs running at large is strictly enforced."—News.

Brother, if hogs were as scarce in and about your town as they are down here, you would have but little trouble. There is but one old sow left in this neighborhood, and she has taken to the woods, and the lord knows whether she will ever come back or not.

The other day while J. B. Webb was burning off an old field, that had become covered with broom sage, and after he had fired around the field, he got up on a stump to see the fire, but he soon noticed that his dog was in the enclosure and the fire was fast closing in on him. The poor dog had no other escape than to go through the fire, and this he did in a few minutes and out in a blaze all over him; and was burned in a frightful condition, and will probably die.

Old Mr. Lewis, a house carpenter, went out the other morning to draw a bucket of water, and as he stooped over the well, his watch, a gold one, fell out of his vest pocket and into the well, which was about twenty feet deep. He procured help immediately and had the water hoisted out. The watch was found, and still running.

We have been informed lately of several happenings, but, thinking them in the bonds of "Cato" or Vespe, we would not cross the line, nor infringe on any one.

We have been hooding Glenwood for seven or eight years, but it seems that the more we hood the less progress. The store has been moved, has the Post Office, the mill has been sold and taken off, and some of our best citizens are moving off to other places but we still hope to see our little village rise again to its former position, as it deserves to be. RAMBLER.

SEED TICK.

Those pretty days have given our farmers a chance to get a great deal of land and has given the loafers and dead beats a chance to bask in the sunshine and tell big snake yarns and beg tobacco.

Chris Savage has moved to Vespe to commence plowing—well he hasn't moved yet, he is just batching, his family is still here.

Henry Fannin, our popular huckster, broke his wagon down and had to stop a day or two on that account.

Eph Lockwood was looking about the village last week, we presume he was noting the prospect for sang, but E. is too late, one of our own men has cornered the gin-seng arrangements.

Lindsay White has at last returned to the bosom of his family, he has been in W. Va. all winter. We are glad to see our fat jolly old Lindsay again.

John E. Queen, of Newcum, hauled in a fine load of hoop poles. He said to ship them, but when we told him that this was no R. R. station, he seemed greatly disappointed, and said he would make baskets out of "em".

The store at this place is getting pretty well closed out. Clate the popular salesman says he will go back to his farm, as farming is the easiest "anyhow."

Well, "Cato" didn't you get in a rowler last week about the hanks all going to close, of course they will, and in 4 months too, because that would be the 4th of July a holiday, and if we understand it correctly, all banks close on all National holidays. Now "Cato" did you study that up yourself or did you hear some one say so. You ask to hear from everybody about, we wish you would. ANDY.

CHEEROKEE, KY.

Business is lively at this place, we have been hearing the hum of the circular saw for quite awhile; also the carpenter's plane has been smoothing the surface of some lumber, while building and repairing is the order of the day on Rock House. The passer by can readily decide that our quiet little burg is booming, while peace and quietude reigns supreme.

Some have sought to better their lonely life, upon Saturday evening, March 4, Wm. H. C. Thompson was seen riding up Blaine to the mouth of Cherokee, where he stopped at the home of Miss Nettie Graham, and soon was joined to her in the holy bonds of matrimony, Rev. McKinstor officiating. The couple have our best wishes.

Died, March 3d, Mary Wheeler, the wife of Joshua M. Wheeler. The bereaved husband has our deepest sympathy. He is a Deaf Mute.

Ere I close I must compliment the grand success being made in the Sabbath School at Irish creek. God speed the time when every district will be awakened from their lethargy of negligence and our country may claim some honor, for it's Christian efforts. With best wishes to the News and its many readers. TAR HEEL.

John Rabers Wallace insists with considerable emphasis of rather an indignant nature that he has not left town, as was stated in the News last week. We concede that he probably knows what he is talking about in this instance. We have no apology to make, as we made the statement upon good authority.

Died, Wednesday, at this place, Mrs. Viola Jones Allen, wife of John Allen. She was taken suddenly and violently ill last Saturday and suffered severely between that time and the moment of her death. She was a daughter of Mr. F. A. Jones. Her age was 21 years. The funeral took place from the M. E. Church, yesterday, and the interment was made in Pine Hill Cemetery.

The Lawrence County Republican man takes a last dig at the News through the columns of the Leader this week. As his paper is dead we shall not answer the article or even correct the gross misrepresentations contained in it. We are publishing a newspaper and report whatever happenings will interest our readers, and make just such comments as we desire, without consulting any one. We also make it a rule to attend to our own business.

Wm. By's v. Inquirer says: Jim Hicks wrote a letter to a woman, and in consequence he is being detained by Jailer Kruse at the request of the Government authorities. He was brought to Covington yesterday by Deputy United States Marshal, Lavelley. Hicks lives up near Louisa, Ky., and he and a man by the name of Moore thought it would be real funny to write a note to a woman. She received the note, and instead of getting a husband had them arrested. The reading of the letter, through the mails, Hicks had no one to go to his head and will have to remain in jail for three months before he can get a trial.

If instead of complaining of dull times our business men would keep busy at establishing or securing the establishment of enterprises which would employ labor and attract business, we could look hopefully into the future. A combined effort is necessary. Scanning the few dollars we already have is the poorest idea of business imaginable. It generates strife and selfishness and defeats the people against the interests of the community. We have only to look at other towns—any of those which have accomplished anything of consequence in the way of business, to see that it is by constant and combined pull that they have succeeded.

This is Only a News Item.

Two whiskey men, W. T. Evans and J. B. Hartman, came into the News office last Friday morning and confessed that great privilege which is always accompanied by so much sweet satisfaction when things don't go to snit—that of having their names stricken from the subscription list. The result as affecting us is best illustrated by a simple problem in mathematics, which even a child may comprehend. Here it is: "2 from 1,005, leave how many?" Answer, "1,005." And by the way, you may add 7 new subscribers to the result and you will have the state of our subscription list "before and after taking."

The provocation was the publication of two news items in our last issue, with some slightly caustic remarks appended to the one in which no names were mentioned. One was the report of five persons in Police court for the illegal sale of whiskey and the other was in regard to an intimidating letter received by the witness in those trials. The air was thick with tales of black eyes and such like for a short while.

We thought of publishing a full report of the ridiculous affair, but have concluded that the space can be used for a better purpose.

A Hustling Company.

The Southard Coal and Iron Co., recently organized, will at an early date open up some of the largest coal mines in the Big Sandy Valley, the seat of operations being in Honey Camp Hill on the headwaters of Nat's creek, a few miles south and east of Richardson.

Some three years ago Mr. Southard, who is from Pennsylvania, and is equally well posted in coal and lumber, went to that section, ostensibly to engage in the latter business. Accordingly he purchased large interests in the above named section, and building a tram road from Richardson, erected a large band saw mill, in the heart of a delightful timber country, that has been most successfully run ever since.

That there were other things in that section than timber seems to have been recognized at a glance by the investor, who said nothing at the legendary tales that reached him of surprisingly large coal deposits in that very territory. But later events proved that he was fully alive to all about him, and gave but little consideration to the impediment that had always before stood in the way of an attempt at development, namely: the almost impenetrable wilderness that surrounds it.

Mr. Southard set on foot a series of investigations. Getting the range and drift, he had the veins opened up, and in consequence has one of the finest coal territories in all that section.

The vein found is twelve feet in thickness, three of which is the best grade canal coal—all lying beneath a rock roof and bottom. It is one of the greatest finds in the history of the Big Sandy coal business, and will prove a veritable gold mine for its owner. Besides this, another series of veins of the famous Peach Orchard split coal have been located, and will also be worked in connection with the other. This can be done by building a four-mile stretch of road from Richardson, which will be ample to reach all the mines so far located. The company that has been organized is all composed of wealthy and experienced Pennsylvania operators, who will, it is stated, begin the work of opening up the mines at once, and hope to have them in operation, on a large scale, by late summer. They mean business from the start, and will lose no time in getting all things ready. The Big Sandy country is rapidly developing into one of the best coal producing sections, and has a bright future, if a railroad can be gotten down to thoroughly intersect it.—Ashland News.

A Canning Factory.

A movement is on foot to establish a canning factory at this place. An enterprise whose benefits are more desirably distributed than can be found. It furnishes a market for farmers and gives employment to the women and children of the country at gathering fruits, and also at the work of canning. This latter fact makes the industry all the more desirable, as it furnishes employment for the class of persons who now find it so difficult to support themselves in this section. We shall have a good deal to say to the farmers on this matter from time to time, and expect to be able to give them facts and figures on their side of the project. We have arranged to get full information on the subject.

The recent term of the Magoffin circuit court found 250 indictments mainly for whiskey, gambling and pistols. This has had the effect of closing all the "blind tigers" in the county. Two indictments for murder were found against Leander and Samuel Risner, and eight others were indicted for participating in the recent battle at that place. The defendants were admitted to bail in $5,000 each. Monteville Deskins came into court and surrendered himself and will stand his trial. The body of men he brought back from W. Va., is still there. No further trouble is apprehended.—Paintsville Courier.

A castle of Knights of the Golden Eagle will be instituted at Paintsville, to-night by members of Louisa and Fallsburg lodges.

The C. & O.'s new bridge across the Big Sandy at Catlettsburg will be a fine structure. It will be sixty feet wide, with a double railroad track, two ten-foot wagon ways, and two five-foot passenger ways. It will take several months to build it, and about three hundred men will be employed on it. The location is to be eighteen hundred feet below the old bridge. When finished it will be one of the most complete small railroad bridges in the country.

The Sandy River Transportation Company has sold the steamers Frank Preston and Sandy Valley to the East Line Transportation Company, and G. F. Adams of Catlettsburg, has been elected Superintendent.

Williamson will be incorporated next Circuit Court at Logan. So will Nolan, Dingess and Matewan. Of these four small towns only Matewan has a church, and neither of them a respectable school house. It is now a conceded fact that Logan county will either have to build more school houses and churches or enlarge her jail—which shall we do, and which will be the most profitable in our future? Logan C. H. is the only town in the county that deserves any credit at all for her schools and churches. Let Williamson and other towns follow her example.—New Era.

There is a busy, pushing spirit abroad in the Big Sandy country, and the energetic men in that section are lifting it rapidly from the rut. "People who have heretofore been kept out because of the reported danger of life in these sections," says the Ashland News, "through the efforts of energetic and hustling up-Sandy business men, and the equally good effect of the press of this end of the State, are becoming converted to the idea that the days of darker lawlessness in the Big Sandy valley are past, and a season of progress, success and peaceful quiet is approaching."—C. J.

The recent exodus of fifty-five Lewis county people to Kansas was due to the solicitation of a plausible agent of Kansas land speculators. The abandoned towns of Kansas must be filled up in some way if every Republican county in the United States has to contribute.—C. J.

Ashland News: Carter county farmers are more than ever preparing for a general tobacco raising the coming season, and that county promises to produce some of the best, and certainly the greatest amount, of any county in this section of the State.
